"The FTMBA at LSB helped me redefine my professional narrative in a way that resonated with the international market. This clarity supported my transition into a new role with a broader, more global scope, aligning my career with the mindset I developed during the program.
The program also influenced how I approach projects by working backwards from the customer and managing change. These shifts will continue to guide how I think and act professionally."

Private Equity & Venture Capital, Advanced Applied Marketing, AI for Business Managers, and Risk Management.

(3 ECTS)

Risk Management

Students learn how financial institutions manage every major risk category, credit, market, liquidity, operational, and climate-related — using the same quantitative tools professionals use: VaR, Expected Shortfall, stress testing, and Monte Carlo simulation. They develop an integrated understanding of regulatory capital, governance, and the strategic constraints banks face under Basel, ECB, and EBA frameworks.

(3 ECTS)

AI for Business Managers

Students learn to cut through AI hype and make sound decisions about adoption, from framing the business problem and assessing data readiness to interpreting model outputs using SHAP and PDP, without any coding required.

They develop the critical judgment to govern AI responsibly, spotting pitfalls like data leakage, bias, overfitting, and automation bias before they cause damage.

(3 ECTS)

Advanced Applied Marketing

Students learn that marketing is a strategic business discipline that drives revenue and shapes leadership decisions and that its principles apply just as powerfully in finance, consulting, and technology as in traditional marketing roles. Through real-world cases, role-playing, and hands-on deliverables taught by a former P&G and Amazon executive, they build skills in data-driven strategy, cross-cultural decision-making, and persuasive communication for senior stakeholders.

(3 ECTS)

Private Equity & Venture Capital

Students gain a comprehensive view of PE and VC, from fund raising, launching and managing a fund to valuation, due diligence, and investing in private companies. Discussions include topics such as ESG/impact investing, and the legal and governance frameworks shaping the industry. The course is taught by a practitioner with 20+ years of industry experience, who has led $2 billion in investments across the EIB, IFC, World Bank, and private firms, bringing unmatched real-world perspective.
